

Learning Support Institute

Why Learning Support Institute?

The ability to meet the needs of students with learning challenges is a cultivated skill. Parents, classroom teachers, and school leaders recognize the need for skilled learning support teachers (tutors). The goal of Learning Support Institute (LSI) is to develop dedicated, trained, long-term learning support teachers. These teachers will provide quality instruction with compassion to students with learning differences so they can reach their full potential.

LEARNING SUPPORT INSTITUTE IS:

- A two-year off-campus course of development for learning support teachers operating under the umbrella of Faith Builders Resource Group.
- An opportunity for learning support teachers to develop knowledge and skills while actively serving in a local school.
- A course that includes eight in-person events spread over the two years, providing significant opportunity for networking among learning support teachers.
- Weekly tasks and assignments designed to develop a learning support teacher's knowledge, skill, and habits in the field.

What is the LSI experience like?

Participants in Learning Support Institute develop by engaging in two interrelated components:

1. PRESENCE COMPONENT – INSTRUCTION, COACHING, AND COLLABORATING

- Two Seminars: All participants gather in early August for a four-day seminar to participate in sessions, discussions, workshops, and interactions with instructors, mentors, and other participants.
- Six Weekend Meetings: All participants gather the second weekend of October, January, and April, for sessions, discussion groups, and feedback on the knowledge they are gaining and the skills they are employing in their work as a learning support teacher.
- Monthly mentor meeting: Each month in which there is no seminar or weekend meeting, participants will have an hour virtual meeting with their mentor.

2. TASK COMPONENT – FIVE HOURS PER WEEK

- Assignments: Participants are expected to develop knowledge, skills, habits, and strategies for managing an effective resource room. Weekly work will include reading, journaling, and completing tasks that correlate with the current topic of study.

- Projects: Participants will have the opportunity to immediately put into practice what they learn in their own learning support rooms and then reflect on their effectiveness. This may include screening students, documenting student progress, employing teaching techniques or utilizing management techniques during a regular school day. Participants will have opportunities to reflect on these experiences when gathered with their mentoring groups at the in-person meetings.

Does LSI fit me?

Participants are asked to meet the following requirements to participate in LSI:

- Commitment to serve as a learning support teacher for the duration of the program
- Commitment to attend all seminars and weekend meetings
- Commitment to 5 hours of study and projects per week
- Support from school administrator and board
- Technology – computer and internet access to complete assignments

Skilled learning support teachers are a rare find in our Anabaptist schools. LSI hopes to address this problem and will prefer participants with a long-term commitment over participants with only short-term commitments to this role. Please consider the time and presence commitment that LSI requires. We believe that these commitments will lead to a focused investment in the field of special education.

What is the cost?

- Tuition for the two-year program is $2,500 per participant per year ($5,000 total). This price includes all books, lodging and meals at seminars and weekend meetings. Participants are encouraged to ask their local school to support them in this cost.
  - $1000 due at August Seminar
  - $500 due at each weekend meeting: October, January, April
- Tuition is approximately half of the actual cost of the program. The balance will be covered by donations. Contact LSI to learn about our current needs and ways to give.
